

2020 NDUCFA Fruit Tree and Shrub Workshop

Wednesday, Nov. 4, 2020 · 10:00 – 11:15 a.m. CT

Online Zoom Webinar

Workshop: Learn about the varieties of northern-hardy fruit trees and shrubs along with their disease resistance, winter hardiness, productivity, fruit quality and processing potential under North Dakota growing conditions. Also participate in a discussion on the best management techniques for cultivating northern-hardy fruits and receiving a bountiful harvest.

Cost: Members: $5 per person Nonmembers: $15 per person (non-refundable)

Presenter: Kathy Wiederholt, Fruit Project Manager at the Carrington Research Extension Center
 Wiederholt has been the manager of the Northern-Hardy Fruit Evaluation Project at CREC since 2006. She had Master Gardener training through University of Wisconsin-Extension and botany and horticulture classes in college. She has a lifelong love of plants. The CREC fruit project is the only known research-based project that is determining the suitability of selected cultivars of northern-hardy fruits for both home gardeners and commercial production in the upper Great Plains or Midwest.

Registration: Pay by check using the form below or pay by credit card by calling NDUCFA at 701-355-4458.

This workshop is made possible in part through a grant from USDA Forest Service and ND Forest Service.

2020 FRUIT TREE WORKSHOP REGISTRATION FORM

Name(s)
Company
Address
City, State, Zip
Phone
Email(s)
Amount Paid		Check #

Submit registration form to NDUCFA by Tuesday, Oct. 27, 2020 (receipt, not postmark, deadline).

Mail with check payable to: NDUCFA, PO BOX 1091, BISMARCK ND 58502

Questions: Call Katherine at 701-355-4458 or email office@nducfa.org.